TEARS FOR ITS DEAD.

Continued from First Page.

HE KNEW HIM WELL.

Yes, I knew Mr. Davis quite well, as I was near him almost daily from Montgomery, Ala., to Richmond, during the whole time of the war between the States, and I regarded him al a man of fine attainments polished and accom-plished, brave and courageous, and true to his principles; and I believe the Confederacy came principles; and I believe the Confederacy came as near succeeding under his Presidency as it would have done under that of any other man. As to the place history will give him, that is a most difficult question to answer at any time, and as to any man; but I believe when his whole life and character are considered and analyzed in an unclouded atmosphere, by cool, dispassionate people, he will hold a very high place in history.

Justice Lamar said that it was with great

MISSISSIPPIANS' ACTION.

A meeting of the prominent Mississip-pians now in the city was held here this

AS AN EXAMPLE.

Resolved, By pure force of mind, by fervid patriotism, by uncompromising honesty, by delicate honor, by kindly and sympathetic nature, we declare he constituted an exemplar for our youths who aspire to high and heroic things; and in this moment of our grief and in our pride, we confidently challenge the judg-ment of posterity, and believe that the his-torian of after years, looking down the per-spective of the past, will see Jefferson Davis the colossal figure of his times, and do justice to the virtues which so deeply fixed him in our hearts.

hearts.

Resolved, That we tender our warmest and deepest sympathies to his bereaved family, and invoke for them the consolation of the Divine

A BURIAL PLACE OFFERED.

President Confederate Veterans' Association

J. T. HOLTZEELAW,
President Montgomery Veterans' Association.
W. D. REESH,
President Alabama Confederate Monument

President Ladies' Memorial Associat E. A. GRAHAM,

Mayor of Montgomery.
THOMAS H. WATTS.
Ex-Attorney General Confederate States.

The Governor of the State is absent, or his signature would have been attached.

GRIEF OF HIS COMRADES.

Old Soldiers of the Confederate Army Express Their Sorrow.

MEMPHIS, December 6 .- A meeting of the old soldiers of the Confederate army will be held here to-morrow afternoon to give expression to the sentiments of those who served in the civil struggle for their late chieftain; also to invite the relatives and friends of the family of the late Mr.

Davis to have his remains brought here for final interment, by the side of his two sons, who are buried at Elmwood Cemetery. The following dispatch was sent to-day from the Confederate Historical Association to Mrs.

Davis:

The Confederate Historical Association of Memphis tenders its sympathy and regret at the great loss sustained by you and the country in the death of Mr. Davis. This association begs the boon of bringing his bonored remains here for burial, and assures you and the country that his grave shall be kept green through the coming ages. We urge this as he was a member of our association, made his first home here after the war, and was dear to the hearts of this community.

the hearts of this community.

C. W. FRAZIER, President.

SOME ENGLISH OPINIONS.

All the Papers Speak at Length of Him, to Praise or Blame.

LONDON, December 6 .- All the evening papers have leaders on Jefferson Davis. The Globe recalls Mr. Gladstone's eulogium, including the famous phrase, so much criticised at the time: "Jefferson Davis has oreated cised at the time: "Jenerson Davis has created a nation," and adds that if he did not create a nation it was because such a creation was clearly not possible in the conditions; that if statesmanship, military genius, devotion on the part of a whole people were sufficient for the foundation of a State, a slaveholding retained that the conditions when satablished." The approximation of the conditions of the the foundation of a State, a slaveholding re-public would have been established." The en-terprise failed, it concludes, because success in the conditions was not difficult but impossible. The St. James' Gastle doubts whether Davis will take a historical position as one of the world's great men, but adds: "He was a man of great persistency of purpose, and keen politi-cal vision."

EVERYWHERE SIGNS OF GRIEF.

Flags at Half Must and Public Buildings

WILMINGTON, N. C., December 6 .- The death of ex-President Davis, though not unexpected, created profound sorrow in Draped in Black.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, New Orleans:

Davis:

of Alabama.

Davis:

Ex-Attorney General Garland said:

The Nun of Kenmare's Statements About Mother Alphonse Denied.

EVERY LIBERTY IS ALLOWED HER.

Her Followers Out All the Time and Get the Best in the House.

EVERY WHIM AND CAPRICE GRATIFIED.

No Questions Asked Miss Cusack, but Had She Been Known She Would Not Have Got In.

A new light was thrown on the Ursuline convent trouble yesterday. Mother Alphonse and her adherents are not kept in their rooms, as stated by the "Nun of Kenmare." It is said they have all the privileges of the convent, and get better treatment than the other nuns in the house. They are out almost every day.

The boldness of the Nun of Kenmare in securing an entrance into the Ursuline Convent yesterday and interviewing the deposed Mother Alphonse caused considerable of a stir in Cetholic circles. In her account of the visit Miss Cusack made a number of allegations against the institution and the treatment of Mother Alphonse. A DISPATCH reporter visited the convent yesterday alternoon for the purpose of giving Mother Gertrude, who is now in charge, an opportunity of making a statement. The idea was to give both sides of the

When the reporter visited the convent he was told that Mother Gertrude would not talk about the matter, preferring to allow the charges to go unanswered until the proper time comes to refute them. She maintains a dignified silence, upon the advice of Bishop Phelan, on the ground that any attempt at denial would only keep the mat-ter stirred up. She thinks the proper course to pursue is to let the "Nun of Ken-mare" alone, and when she has no opposimare" alone, and when she has no opposi-tion the latter will drop out of public sight. In conversation with a lady who visits the institution every day an entirely new light has been thrown on the matter. She says the statements of Miss Cusack are false when she says Mother Alphonse and her two adherents are kept in a few rooms and are shut off from the balance of the household. She stated that the three nuns are out on the street almost every day and they are allowed the greatest freedom about the place. Not only this, but they get better treatment than any of the other inmates about the house. Telling the story in her own way, the lady said:

HOW SHE SECURED ADMISSION. "Had the attendant who admitted the 'Nun of Kenmare' known who the visitor was, the latter would never have got in. The reason is not because the Sisters do not want anyone to see Mother Alphonse, but they think that Miss Cusack is in about the same condition as Sister Gonzales, who is now confined in Dixmont. At the convent it has been known for years that insanity ran in Sister Gonzales' family, and it would only be a matter of time until she would go out of her mind. When Miss Cusack says that Sister Gonzales was driven insane, she only shows how her own mind is affected.

'The 'Nun of Kenmare' says she repre sented herself to be an English lady, and this got her into the convent. This is un-true. No question was asked who she was, and it was not necessary for the nun to go to the trouble of telling what she war. When she says the three Sisters were barred from communication with the rest of the house, she speaks an untruth, or she is ig-norant of the subject. Any visitor to the convent or grounds can find the three Sisters in any part of the house to which they in a few rooms. One would imagine from what Miss Cusack says that Mother Alphonse and her supporters are kept in a cell and their meals thrust into them through a wicket. The three Sisters are out more days in one week than all the other nuns in the Horne's and other large stores. No restrain. is put upon them. They are always out around the grounds, and their movements are in no way interfered with. It is an easy matter for any visitor to the house to go to any part of it. There are no barred or bolted doors to rooms out of which the three Sisters are kept. They go where they please, do as they please and no person about the institution interferes with them. Bishop Phelan gratifies their every whim and caprice and there is nothing that Mother Alphouse wants that she does not get. At meal time they are served first and ir meals are carried to them. They get the best on the table and often to the neg of the other nuns. The latter never fare better and seldom as well. It is nonsens to say that the Sisters are deprived of doing needlework and the publication of this caused considerable merriment. "I do not understand what the 'nun means by going to the bottom of the case At the convent it is sincerely hoped that she will. Mother Gertrude will not pay any attention to her, and will say nothing until advised to do so by Bishop Phelan."

ON TO INDIANAPOLIS.

President Harrison and Party go Westward to the Ex-Mecca.

President and Mrs. Harrison, accou panied by First Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson and wife and Miss Wansmaker passed through Pittsburg en route for Indianapolis at an early hour this morning, on a special train over the Pennsylvania lines. The party occupied President Roberts' private car and traveled in style.

The occupants of the car were sound asleep and could not be disturbed by even the most importunate newspaper men.

Work Stopped at the Penitentlary. The work on the construction of the new portion of the Western Penitentiary was suspended yesterday for the winter. The new wing contains 500 cells, all of which are larger than those in the other part of the building. In the spring the finishing propractically complete except the finishing of the interior.

Teachers' Institute.

The seventy-fifth stated meeting of the Teachers' Institute will be held at the Ralston school this morning at 9 o'clock, There will be a class drill in reading by pupils from the Mt. Albion school, under the direction of Miss Ella Hanlon, and an address by Hon. C. E. White, of Cincinnati.

Pittsburg and Western Enroings. The gross earnings of the Pittsburg and Western Railroad for the month of October exceeded those of October of last year by $6,125 27. The net earnings for the month were $59,367 82; the amount required to pay interest on the bonds is $32,849 16, leaving a surplus of $26,518 66.

His Arm Almost Torn Asundas Henry Benz, an employe of Painters' mill, had his arm terribly lacerated yesterday. A piece of iron passing through the shears struck him on the arm, almost severing it om the body. The Cotillon Was a Success. The first assembly ball of the Pittsburg Club was a great success, being brilliantly managed and with all the accessories that taste and skill could suggest.

Pittsburg Lodge of Odd Fellows Held an Erjoyable Entertalnment lows, last night celebrated its forty-first auniversary by a literary and musical entertainment at Odd Fellows' Hall, No. 67 Fourth avenue. An excellent programme was presented and a pleasant evening passed. Past Grand Lawrence Mooney made an address of welcome and Chevalier Harry S. Voight gave a history of the

NEARING THE HALF CENTURY MARK.

The lodge was chartered December 8, 1849, and instituted December 14 at what was then known as the Washington Assembly rooms, on Wood street, near Virgin alley. It started with 12 charter members. In 1851 they moved to the corner of Wood street and Virgin alley, where they remained four years. Among those who took an active interest at this time were Issac Whittier, A. G. McCandless, A. Daubenmeyer, James B. D. Meads, Wade Hampton, S. W. Caskey, J. C. Buffum and Otto Helmold. In its early history the lodge was known as the "Silk Stocking Lodge," owing to the high admission fee.

The lodge had many trying times, and once the regalia was attached by the sheriff for debt. Since the institution of the lodge 633 applications for membership have been received. Of these 513 were admitted by card and initiation and 120 rejected. The present number of members is 105.

Others taking part in the programme were Mrs. L. M. Duffy, Robert Johnson, Miss Nannie Warnock, Mrs. Bostow, Miss M. N. Wilson, Mrs. J. P. Sterguon, B. Palmer, D. W. Young and the Moorhead choir. At the conclusion there was the presenta-tion of veteran jewels for 25 years continuous men.bership in the lodge by District Deputy Grand Master F. B. C. Perrin. The jewels were presented to J. C. Buffum, Albert Graham, A. Daubenmeyer and H. M. Wilbraham.

ITS FIRST ANNUAL BANQUET.

The Muster Musous' Association, of Wil-kinsburg, at the Seventh Avenue. The Master Masons' Association, of Wilkinsburg, held its first annual meeting at the Seventh Avenue Hotel last evening. The masters were accompanied by their wives, mothers, sisters and other relatives, and in all about 90 guests sat down at 9 o'clock to the customary banquet, which was served after the manner for which the Seventh Avenue is famed.

The association was formed about a year ago, and among its objects are the succoring of sick brethren, the extension of social relations among members, and the cementing of closer ties of sympathy and friendship between those families which it embraces. The outgoing officers are George H. Atkinson, President, John S. B. Mercer, First Vice, William Scott, Second Vice, James H. Orr, Treasurer, H. T. Rowley, Secretary. Those elected last evening were John B. Mercer as President, Henry T. Rowley Secretary. The stewards were John B. Mercer, W. H. Devore and T. J. Best. Following is the programme:

Following is the programme:

Toast—"Our Association". Prof. D. Carhart
Toast—"Our Guesta, the Ladies".

Mr. E. A. Batph
Toast—"Masonry". Mr. H. T. Rowiey
Mr. George H. Atkinson, Toastmaster.

Solo—"Velcome Frimrose". Miss Alice Fownes Hecttation—"Ostler Joe".

Mrs. Dr. W. L. Simpson
Solo—"I Am Waiting". Miss Kate Barbour
Sketches—"Travels in Many Lands"

Frof. Heffly, Accompaniat.

Prof. Heffly, Accompanist The party were conveyed to town in two special cars and in which they returned on the 12:10 train. Mr. W. H. Devore was so kind as to furnish the foregoing particulars. TO EXTEND THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The Annual Estimates for Next Year

Provide More Room. The High School Committee of the Central Board of Education met last night. The preliminary examination for admission to the High School were fixed for December 20, 21, 22 and 23.

The sub-committee appointed to secure accommodations outside of the High School building for the commercial department re ported that rooms at the Duquesne building could be rented for $900 per year and at the Ralston building for $1,500. Both offers were rejected and the department will stay where it is for some time yet.

in one week than all the other nuns in the institution put together. They have become familiar figures on the streets and in the estimates for 1890 to take into consideration the propriety of setting apart an amount sufficient to provide an extension to the High School building. The resolution was adopted. The Committee on Teachers and Salaries also met last night to arrange the schedule for the next year. A committee representing the principals and another representing the lady teachers were present, and asked that the salaries of the teachers be increased. The committee, after considering the matter, decided to recommend that all salaries remain as at present, except that the salary of Prof. Speer, of the High school, be raised from $1,400 to $1,700, putting him on a level with other professors there, and that the salaries of primary teachers, who have been engaged for five years, be increased from $50 to $55 per month.

Charged With Larceny.

Antoni Picondily, an Italian who lives on Grant street, made an information before Alderman Richards yesterday charging Angelo Barley with larceny from the person. It is alleged by Picondily that he and Barfey were working together at Turtle Creek, and on last Sunday evening, while Picondily was asleep Barley robbed him of $50 in cash. Barley was arrested and com-mitted to jail for a hearing Monday.

The Joyous Holldays.

Christmas is coming right rapidly, and everybody is preparing for it. It is well to remember in this connection that no boliday dinner will be complete without Marvin' famous wedding fruit cake, or golden plumpudding. They are made of the purest imported materials, and grocers keep them. D

See our hand-painted bolting cloth end silk scar's at 90c, sold elsewhere at $1 25. Our price 90c. Boggs & BUHL.

B. J. Lynch, 438 and 440 Market st. is offering for the holidays special bargains in black silks, surahs, satins, plushes, velvets, black and colored cashmeres, serges, plaids, embroid-ered robes and combination suits, to which he invites buyers' special attention.

82 00. 82 00. The sales are increasing daily in our gents' $3 morocco, patent-leather, trimmed chamois ined slippers. They make very acceptable Xmas presents. CAIN & VERNER, Xmas presents. Fifth ave. and Market st. AT 50c, a good "Biarritz" glove; adver tised all over New York at 59e.

Jos. Horne & Co.'s Penn Avenue Stores.

NOVELTIES in neckwear for holiday JAMES H. AIKEN & Co., 100 Fifth ave. THE old reliable F. & V. Pilsner never tails to give satisfaction. All dealers.

Or order direct. Telephone, 1186. ONLY a few dozen of those 16-in. kid body bisque face dolls left at 50c each. Buy one and secure the greatest bargain of the season at Harrison's Toy Store, 123 Federal street, 83 00. 83 00. 83 00. Cold weather shoes for tender feet. Ask for the "California" shoe at $3 00.

CAIN & VERNER, Fifth ave. & Market st.

to-morrow's DISPATCH.

MURDER NEARLY OUT.

Pittsburg Lodge No. 336, of the Odd Fel- The Rahway Mystery at Last Fairly on the Road to Solution.

A FAMILY OF THREE ARRESTED.

Charged With Abducting and Detaining a Couple of Young Girls,

UNTIL THEY WOULD MARRY THE SON.

One of the Victims Tells a Tale That May Convict a Murderer.

What has been known as "the Rahway mystery" for nearly three years seems to be in a fair way of solution. A family named Froat or Fouratt has been placed in jail at New Brunswick, N. J., charged with abducting young girls, and a story told by one of their victims throws some light on the mysterious murder of the unknown German girl in March, 1887.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, December 6 .- On the morning of March 25, 1887, a comely, fresh-complexioned girl, with light blue eyes and wavy brown hair, was found dead, with her throat cut, on the outskirts of Rahway. That was the beginning of the great Rahway murder mystery. She was never identified. Scores of clews turned up, but all proved

During all the investigation and clewhunting that followed, the suspicions at-taching to the Front family, of Rahway, were regarded as most significant. The Fronts, or Fouratts, were a family of poor people, who lived in a small house within 500 yards of where the body of the dead girl was found. None of them ever went to look at the girl's body, although hundreds of their neighbors did. Neither did any of the Froats visit the body at the Rahway morgue.

NOT THE SAME GIRL, It was found out that a few days before the murder the Froats had had a strange girl staying with them. This girl was proved to be Irish. She had recently arrived in this country, and her name was Nancy. The detectives found her still Nevertheless, public sentiment in Rahway set very strangely against the Frost family, and a few months after the murder the family moved away from Rahway to Elizabeth, and finally they disappeared from Elizabeth.

Throughout the northern part of New Jersey there are several families like the Froats, all intermarried. Around Rahway, Elizabeth, New Brunswick and the Amboys are scores of separate families of the Froats, or Fouratts, Sodens and Keeches. All of these form a set in New Jersey. The police give some of them a poor character as re-gards morality, and say they are lazy, shift-less, and generally reputed to be criminal. OVERTAKEN BY THE LAW.

Overtaken by the Law.

On Thursday, John Fouratt and his wife, and William Fouratt, their son, who live in a shanty in the woods between New Brunswick and Rahway, were held in $1,500 bail hy Justice Ford, of New Brunswick, for abducting and detaining for five work. Mamie Hughes the provincer of weeks Mamie Hughes, the proprietor of a laundry and carpet-cleaning works in New Brunswick. The circumstances de-veloped in the case of Mamie Hughes are significant as bearing on the Rahway mur-der. It cannot be said that anything yet is proved, but, all things taken together, and the whole history of the Rahway case re-viewed, the facts just discovered are deserving of further investigation. These are the facts discovered:

1—It seems to be a common thing for different families of Frosts or Fouratts to detain or to persuade to remain among them young women whom they chance to find, and for these young women to be taken from one family to another.

A SUSPICIOUS SIMILARITY.
-William Fouratt, one of those con cerned in the alleged abduction of Mamie Hughes, told the girl (according to her story) that in the spring, two years ago, he met a German girl, wearing a black fur cape and carrying a black satchel, on a road near his father's house, took her to the house, and kept her there two weeks. One night Fouratt and the girl started out to go to a party. The two quarreled, the girl ran away and Fouratt said that that was the last he saw of her. Third-This girl, as described by Fouratt, bears a general resemblance to the girl found murdered at Rahway. On the night or the night before the murder there was a party held by the Sodens, Keeches and Fouratts or Froats, at Clinton Froat's house, near Rahway. Clinton Front's house is eight miles away from that of his new Brunswick relatives.

MAMIE HUGHES' STORY. Mamie Hughes disappeared from her nome in New Brunswick on October 29 last. Her father lives out on the road to Piscataway, eastward from New Brunswick, and at 6 o'clock in the evening of the day named Mamie left her home to come to her aunt's house in this city. She was to take the train at Stelton, the first station on the Pennsylvania Bailroad east of New Brunswick, and she started to walk there, a distance from her home of a couple of miles. She missed the train at the sta-tion, and then started for the house of Asher Fleming, who lived not a great way off, and with whose daughter she was acquainted. She lost her way, the rain fell heavily, and she applied for shelter at the first house she came to. It was the house of the Fouratts. She says that the Fouratts took her in and detained her there for two weeks. During this time young William Fouratt (he is 26 years old, his father 72, and his mother 64) paid her many attentions, and asked her to marry him. He told her not to be airaid, as his father and himself had often detained girls there. He then told her the story of the German girl, as related above. FORCED TO BE WED. Mamie says she refused to marry William, and that the old man Fouratt then took her in a boat down the Raritan river, to the house of his other son, James, at Key-serville, Staten Island, and that there she was forced to marry William, a minister named Wardlow performing the ceremony. The Hughes family were much alarmed over the disappearance of Mamie. De-tectives were employed, and finally De-tective Gregory, of New Brunswick, got a trace of the girl at Keyserville. He went there and brought her to her home. On the day Detective Gregory brought Mamie Hughes home, and while the de-tective was at the girl's home, old Mrs. Fouratt, her son William and a young girl were seen coming down the road near the house in a wagon. Detective Gregory arrested the whole party, and took them into

Mr. Hughes' house. ANOTHER PITIFUL TALE. Then another pitiful history was unveiled. The girl in the wagon was found to be Katie Ellis, 16 years old, the daughter of a widow living at Keyserville, Staten Island. She cried with joy when the detectives arrested the Fouratta. She said she had been hired in Keyserville to come and work for the Fouratta, near New Brunswick not knowing who these people. Brunswick, not knowing who these people were. While at the Fouratts' William were. While at the Fouratts William Fouratt tried to get the girl to marry him, and also assaulted hot.

In the New Brunswick jail on Thursday night the detectives asked William Fouratt if he knew anything about the girl found murdered at Rahway. Fouratt turned as white as a sheet and trembled. He said that he did not know anything about the girl. He at first denied that he had met a German girl on the road shortly bethis community. The City Hall, the rooms of the Cape Fear Club and other buildings are draped in mourning. Flags are at half mast, and other evidences of the people's grief are to be seen everywhere.

A meeting of Confederates will be held tomorroy; they will issue a call for a general meeting of citizens, to be held probably Monday. for the "California" shoe at $3 00.

CAIN & VERNER, Fifth ave. & Market st.

CLARA BELLE has a budget of lively New York society gossip in to-morrow's DISPATCH.

Chara a shoe at $3 00.

Market st.

the girl. He at first denied that he had met a German girl on the road shortly before the Rahway murder, but afterward he admitted that he did meet the girl, and that she was kept at his house for some time. He said that he finally took the girl to New Brunswick, and that was the last he saw of her. NASHVILLE, THNN., December 6 .- There is universal sorrow here at the death of Jefferson from view the last great landmark of the terrible war. If it could end all divisions and strifes, and bury in a deep grave the differences of sections, a new day of peace and prosperity would dawn upon the land. Rival Aftorneys Argued.

THE LIFE OF BEGGS

PROGRESS OF THE CRONIN CASE.

One of the Lawyers for the Defense Bitterly Attacked the

CHARACTER OF THE MURDERED MAN.

The State's Attorney Enters an Objection to the Language Used.

The case against Senior Warden Beggs was the leading feature of the Cronin trial yesterday. Mr. Hynes made a strong argument for the prosecution, to which Mr. Fos-ter responded on behalf of the prisoner. The reluctance that he could speak of Mr. Davis at this time, so soon after his death, which he (the Justice) felt deeply. He expressed a willingness to answer briefly questions which might be asked, and in reply to these latter attorney made an attack upon the character and actions of the murdered doctor.

The whole people of Mississippi are in grief. They regard him as a much beloved countryman, who has suffered much for their sake. My own personal relations with him were not only kind, but affectionate. As a public man, my estimate of him was of the most exalted character. He was a man of intellect, honor and statesmanship. He was the friend and sympathizer of young men, whom he was always ready to aid. When I came to Congress, in 1857, a young man, Mr. Davis was then a Senator. He received me with kindness, and throughout my life I have been indebted to him for kindess, counsel and aid. CHICAGO, December 6.—Prosecutor Hynes devoted a large portion of his address o-day to the case of Senior Guardian Beggs. He said that the evidence did not show, as claimed, that Beggs was simply in an attitude of waiting and deprecating any discussion until the report of the committee to try the Triangle was made; it was not merely that Dr. Cronin was premature in his report to his camp. Beggs' objection was against any uncovering of the alleged frauds at all. He announced himself a friend of Alexander Sullivan and he wanted the question of the trands dropped.

afternoon to take appropriate action on the death of Jefferson Davis. Among those Mr. Hynes added on this point: "Beggs insisted that 'there was no use in opening old scores; that they were the enemies of Irish unity; that the men behind him, the men who bad the power, as he says here, or the men who are the power, will in time realize the motives of those who are continually creating disorder in the ranks, and a day of punishment will come. I am very much discouraged at the present outlook, and hope no trouble will result.'

afterneon to take appropriate action on the death of Jefferson Davis. Among those present were Justice L. Q. C. Lamar, who presided, and the entire Mississippi delegation in Coagress, including Senators Waltball and George. The following resolutions of sympathy and affection were adopted and telegraphed to Mrs. Davis, at New Orleans: Resolved, That while the fullness of years and feeble health of the distinguished dead warranted expectation of this sad event, yet its certainty is a shock to our affection which no language can express or even faintly shadow. That we recall with tender emotion his career as soldier and civilian, brilliant, eventful and without parallel in our annais, whether as a soldier pouring out his blood on foreign hattic fields, as a statesman in the cabinet of the nation, as the leader of his party in Congress, as the guiding spirit of the South through the stormiest period of her history, as the vicarious sufferer for us and his people in defeat, he has constantly and fully met the requirements of the most exacting criticism, and illustrated in every station and condition the manly courage, the acute intellect, the heroic fortitude, the unfaltering devotion to duty, the constant sacrifice to conviction that won for him our confidence, admiration, love and reverence; and we know that the imperious will and unbending purpose which at moments provoked dissent and opposition, were but the results of an absolute sense of right and superb self-reliance which permitted no hesitation or turning in his chosen course. A SIGNIFICANT MEANING. "He did not mean trouble that had been going on in the camp—the mere discussion of it. Trouble had a more significant mean-ing than the mere acrimony of discussion; than debate and ventilation in man's mind on the subject in the camp. People were talking to Beggs at that time about trouble. Of course, in writing to Mr. Spelman he would not disclose any more than his anxiety that Mr. Spelman should take some action, and, as I said yesterday, perhaps the scheme was under the cover of that—the secret committee that had been already appointed was to do its work. Who was breathing threats of trouble into the ears of Begrs at that time?"

Referring to the acts of Coughlin and Beggs, Mr. Hynes said: "These men, who were determined to wreck Dr. Cronin, these were determined to wreck Dr. Cronin, these men who were determined to have his life and silence his tongue, knew that they could go around and breathe suspicions in the ears of men who, they felt, held the possibilities of murder, on their parts, and this was the reason why Coughlin said that 'a confederate of Le Caron is among us.'" Turning toward the prisoners the speaker continued: "I do not know how these men have been imposed upon if they were imposed the caron is the caron in the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron in the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron in the caron in the caron is the caron in the caron have been imposed upon, if they were imposed upon; I do not know what villainous means were employed for the purpose of producing the conviction in the minds of ne of them that they were dealing with a lives. Resolved, That we condole with our fellow citizens on the loss of his living presence, and congratulate them upon the possession of his illustrious example and of his immortal British spy. A CONFESSION NECESSARY. "We will never know the history of their purpose until some putrid conscience shows forth its phosphorescent light in the dark shadow of the gallows and tells the inner

Prominent Citizens of Montgomery Ask to MONTGOMERY, ALA., December 6.—The grave. It was after the first of March. after the flat had been rented and all preparations barofound sorrow here. Flags on the State croin, that Coughlin whispered into the news of Jefferson Davis' death occasions House and City Hall are at half mast, and ear of Harry O'Connor that there is in-formation in the city that Dr. Cronin is anstores are being draped in mourning. The following telegram has been sent to Mrs. other Le Caron. It was for the purpose of preparing his mind for the Doctor's disappearance that he said this. If the men who inspired the murder of Cronin believed Mrs. Jefferson Davis, New Orleans:

With profoundest sympathy and condolence in your great bereavement, and in response to the united wishes of our people, we earnestly request that you allow us to have the remains of Mr. Davis buried here, under the Confederate monument on Capitol Hill, and the corner stone of which, when completed, will be ormamented with a life-size bronze statue of him.

E. M. PETTUS,
President Confederate Veterans' Association him a spy they would have sent him across the water—but it was not the spy they were their own frauds." In concluding his remarks concerning Beggs, Mr. Hynes said that the significance of all the testimony against Beggs was thor-oughly appreciated by his counsel; if it were not, they would not have gone to the trouble of endeavoring to prove an alibi for after. They were endeavoring to cover up nim on the night of May 4. Mr. Hypes dwelt on the scene in the Carlson cottage, and continued: "Gentlemen of the jury, this savagery and brutality is palmed off to you as patriotism. Many and many a bot Irish act has brought calamity, suffering and shame to the face of the Irish people, but in all their history in the past, and in all the history they can make in the future, this will stand out as the one conspicuous monument of shame against th Irish people, and upon the reputation, character and honorable generosity of the race.

A GRAPHIC PICTURE. Mr. Hynes graphically pictured the finding of the corpse. He said: "The naked body of Dr. Cronin, stripped, it was be "The naked lieved, of everything that could identify him, nothing upon him except a towel around his naked body, that was probably used for the purpose of lifting his bloody body, reeking with blood. The only other thing that was found upon him was the Agnus Dei, an emblem of his faith and of his religion, around his neck, and this in-dicates one thing—that the men who killed Dr. Croniz had the same faith for the emblem that they found around the neck of the man they murdered. It simply helps to identify the men who committed the mur-

After vividly describing the supposed actions of the murderers after disposing of the body, the speaker said: "Oh, think of this man O'Sullivan, with his knowledge, when he was talking with Mr. Conklin and Mrs. Conklin, and when, as he says, he was drinking with his friend, when he went to his bed at night, leaving the lamp lighted in the room. Did that ghastly picture of his dead friend, head foremost in the sewer, his head beaten and battered with the blows that struck his life out, covered with blood as he lies in the sewer. Oh, did the picture of the body in the sewer ever haunt him when he went to bed? Did the horror of that scene ever stir his soul to one moment of repentance, to make a clean breast of it as the last refuge of a guilty soul?"

AN EVIDENCE OF GUILT. Mr. Hynes scored Burke's flight and his 'triangle of aliases in honor of the Triangle whom he was serving." He then denour war on defenseless men and women in Great Britain, charged it upon the Triangle, and the sending of dupes to English prisons that embezzlements might be concealed. In a deeply impressive conclusion, Mr. Hynes asked the jury for a verdict of their conscience, a verdict their judgment would approve, the Court ratify and God sanctify to rindicate the law and commit the guilty to vindicate the law and commit the guilty to a just punishment.

to a just punishment.

At the afternoon session Mr. Foster addressed the jury on behalf of John F. Beggs. After alluding to the importance of the case and the responsibilities which rested with them all, Judge, jury and lawyers, Mr. Foster denounced the murder of Dr. Cronin as the most atrocious and cold-blooded ever perpetrated, but warned them blooded ever perpetrated, but warned them not to let an innocent man suffer for it. After alluding to the large force and the power of the State Attorney's office, Mr. Foster said that he desired to protest against the presecution in this case and the spirit which engendered it. A WAR OF CAMPS. "No sooner was there an arrest made on account of this murder," he said, "than war was declared by what has been termed the opposing samps in the city of Chicago,

'war to the knife and knife to the hilt.' It has been kept up incessantly from that time to this. Not satisfied with the provisions of the statute, with the ability of the State's Attorney and all his assistants, they must engage three or four of the most able counsel in the city of Chicago; men whose ability to sway juries by their cloquence is well known, to assist them in this case."

After an eloquent description of the prosperity of Ireland only a century ago, and a vivid picture of its present condition under vivid picture of its present condition under the "insatiable greed of the English land-lord," Mr. Foster asked if it was any won-lord," Mr. Foster asked if it was any wonder that Irishmen in this country organized to benefit their native land.

He then read a few lines of the speech which was delivered at Indianapolis during the last campaign by Beggs, and a few lines of the response which President Harrison made to it. "That shows," said he, "what the President of the United States thinks upon the question of the loyalty of the Irish people in America."

Mr. Foster then said that he had a very unpleasant duty to perform, because of cer-tain expressions of his client during the life of a man whose soul is now in eternity. "The man who supposes or has supposed that Dr. Cronin, while here upon earth, was an angel in disguise, is very much mis-taken. Whether or not this Clan-na-Gael at the time the circular was issued. Mr. Foster then went on to say that the action of Beggs, from the beginning of the trial down to the present, had been an open book to the jury. He had nothing to conceal, and had concealed nothing, and he himself told Judge Longenecker of the existence of the letters which passed between him and Spelman. It was in evidence that Beggs had said Dr. Cronin had no business to be on the complete to the Triangle Beautiful Present the State of the Triangle Beautiful Present the Triangle Beautiful Presen Judge to the triangle.

Mr. Foster had not concluded his address when the Court adjourned.

A Prisoner Will Try to Get His Bottle of Whinky Back.

man O'Donnell yesterday by Timothy Kelly, charging Sergeant David Myers, of

POLICEMAN ZOOG'S FUNERAL.

The Third District Police Will Attend it in a Body. The arrangements for the funeral of the have been completed.

The funeral will take place from the Holy Cross Church, Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The police of the Third district, under the command of Captains Brown and Stewart, will attend in a body.

CAMPBELL'S SUCCESSORSHIP.

Window Glass Workers Met. but Did Not Hear the Result.

held their regular meeting last night, and the attendance was unusually large.

It was expected that the result on the vote for a successor to President James Campbell would be announced, but the tally sheets have not all been turned in yet. The result may not be known for two weeks yet.

It is now generally understood that General D. H. Hastings, who left for his home at Belleionte, Pa., last evening, is a candidate for Gubernatorial honors. Although he has not decided in what manner he will announce his candidacy, he is, nevertheless,

Charged With Speaking Easy. Chief of Police Kirschler, of Allegheny, made an information last night, before Mayor Pearson, charging Mrs. Catherine Ambacher, of No. 11 Robinson street, with seiling liquor without a license. A warrant was issued.

Great Closing-Out Sale

Of dress goods, trimmings, cloaks, underwear, gloves, hoslery, etc., etc., without regard to cost, to quit this line. Come at once to 68 and 70 Ohio street. Allegheny. TIS ARTHUR, SCHONDELMYER & Co.

We have 500 styles of teas, coffees, choo lates and bouillions at popular prices; in single dozens or harlequin sets, popular prices. REIZENSTEIN, 152, 154, 156 Federal st., Allegheny. B. & B. Art department full of elegant articles for

This-$20 for $5-Morning.

Immense Bargains In country blankets, country flannels, country and German yarns, comforts, towels, table damasks, napkins and sheetings at H.

STEAM train, track and all complete, only $3 50. Absolutely necessary for a complete Christmas tree. Harrison's Toy Store, 123 Federal st., Allegheny. TTS

Slippers, Slippers, Slippers, For Xmas at Cain & Verner's, Fifth avenue and Market street.

PERSIAN silver is the latest novelty toilet, manicure cases, etc. Save money by buying at Harrison's Toy Store, 123 Federal Made comfortable by wearing our feet slip-pers—for young and old—at low prices.

TOBOGGANING-How the sport first originated and how to enjoy it properly, is told in to-morrow's order are described by Ivan Smir DISPATOH by Wilf F. Pond. noff in to-morrow's DISPATOH.

What the Doctors' Autopsy Clearly Established.

CONCUSSION OF THE BRAIN THE CAUSE.

A Verdict of Accidental Death Foreshadowed in the Case.

The autopsy upon the remains of Robert B. Dean performed by Drs. Arabolt and Thomas, shows that Dean's death was not the result of assault but was caused by concussion of the brain.

All of the theories that have been heretofore advanced to establish the claim that Robert B. Dean, the glassworker, who died at the Southside Hospital yesterday morning, had been assaulted, were exploded yesterday, when Dr. Arnholt and Dr. Thomas, of the hospital staff, made up their report on the autopsy held by them.

It will be remembered that Dean was found under a trestle at the foot of South Thirteenth street one day last week with a fractured skull. His friends at once set up a claim that he had been assaulted and robbed, but the police discredited this theory. Dr. Prossman made the most plausible statements to show that the man had been assaulted. He said there were no bruises or cuts on the man such as he would be likely to receive through a fall. The cut on Dean's head was a clean one, and the only one on Dean's body.

WHAT THE AUTOPSY SHOWED. The result of the autopsy held yesterday will be made known officially at the inwill be made known officially at the inquest this afternoon. Dr. Arnholt stated last night, however, that the wounds were not such as to indicate that Dean had been assaulted. It is true that there were no external injuries except the cut in the head. This was about an inch long and half an inch wide, and included the space made by the removal of fragments of the skull. A concussion or rupture of a blood vessel was located on the left side of the head, opposite the wound, and this fact alone removes the theory of assault. The man died of conthe theory of assault. The man died of con-cussion of the brain.

THE COBONER'S INVESTIGATION. Coroner McDowell commenced an investigation in the case yesterday morning. The only witnesses examined were Jane Dean, wife of the deceased, and Sarah Dean, his mother. He lett home on Monday, Novem-ber 18, went to his mother's at Penn station, and stayed until the 23d. On the 24th be was found by the Southside police insensi-ble. How he spent the 24th neither the wife or mother knew. The inquest will be concluded at 3 o'clock this afternoon. It is almost certain the verdict will be one of "socidental death." WHATOFFICIALS SAY.

Inspector McKelvy stated last night that when Dean appeared before Magistrate Brokaw the morning following his discovery under the trestle, he made no complaint of having been assaulted, and that when the magistrate intimated that he intended to send Dean to jail for five days, the latter's wife requested that the time be increased to ten days. She said she did not believe her husband could sober up in five days. Dean's body was removed to Semmel-brock's undertaking rooms yesterday afternoon, and from there to the home on South Seventeenth street. The funeral will take place this afternoon.

TWO SOUTHERN EDITORIALS.

Opinions of the Deceased, Gleaned From New Orleans Newspapers.

NEW ORLEANS, December 6 .- The Draped in mourning this morning is another page in the history of the world, Jefferson Davis is dead, Tried in many high offices, and found faithful in all; tested in many critical conjunctures, and proved true to his country and his people; his life one long, uninterrupted sacrifice of interest to conscience, the fame of the illustrious dead shall in the years to come the illustrious dead shall in the years to come grow brighter as the embers of passion die away. The greatness of Jefferson Davis stands confessed, as we now write, in a people's tears, Tenacious of principle, the alave of conscience, resolute, yet filled with the inspiration that comes from unyielding belief, the giant figure of the ex-President of the Confederacy stalked across the nineteenth century as some majestic spirit that, strong in the consciousness of his own right-doing, scorned the plandits of a world, and lived only that in himself duty might be deified, Such was Jefferson Davis, and such will history declare him to be.

might be deified. Such was Jefferson Davis, and such will history declare him to be.

The Picayune says: "This morning, soon after midnight, there passed out of this life one of the host notable men of the nineteenth century. Jefferson Davisis dead; let the South mourn. Let the South mourn for one who represented, more than any other, the cause for which a million of her most chivairous sons drew their swords and joined battle with the most formidable of adversaries, their own countrymen, for rights and liberties that freemen must ever hold dear. Of the mighty captains and the great statesmen who gathered around him when he presided over the destinies of the South, but few survive. They passed away before him, as did the rulers and destinies of the South, but few survive. They passed away before him, as did the rulers and nearly all the great soldlers of the cause that he confronted so boldly and opposed so stoutly. Lincoln, Grant, McClellan. He has outlived his great and noble adversaries. He saw them pass away, mourned by a nation, worthily wearing its honors. He can now afford to go, askeing no honors, secure in the love of the people, to whom he was faithful to the end."

EVERY BUSINESS HOUSE IN BLACK.

A Committee Appointed to Attend to the Thorough Draping of Atlanta.

ATLANTA, GA., December 6 .- The news of Jefferson Davis' death created a great sensation here, and expressions of sorrow are universal. Only yesterday private advices to Atlanta friends of the family were to the to Atlanta friends of the family were to the effect that there was a change for the better, Mrs. Davis writing: "He is better, but very low. It is God that giveth the increase, but, I have every hope of final recovery, though of course exaget a weary convalesence."

Flags are at half mast on the Capitol and Chamber of Commerce, and the work of draping buildings in mourning has begun. Every business house will be draped by a committee having the matter in charge.

COLUMBUS TO BE DRAPED.

Eloquent Addresses at a Large Mass Meeting of the Citizens. COLUMBUS, GA., December 6.-Imme diately on receipt of the news of the death of Mr. Davis, a call for a mass meeting of

of Mr. Davis, a call for a mass meeting of the citizens was issued by Mayor pro tem. Brannon, which was held at the public library in the afternoon, and was largely attended. A preamble and resolution, expressive of regret at the death of the distinguished Southern leader, were presented and unanimously adopted.

Eloquent speeches were made by a number of prominent citizens, and a resolution was adopted providing for the suspension of business on the day of the funeral, for memorial services in the different churches, and that the city be draped in mourfing.

GREENVILLE, S. C., December 6.—Bells are tolling here as a mark of respect to the late Jefferson Davis. The Greenville Daily News will appear to-morrow morning in mourning in honor of Mr. Davis.

A Sigger Purse Than Ever.

A Binger Purse Than Ever.

FARGO, N. D., December &—At a meeting of the recently-organized Dompsey Athletic Club held this evening it was decided to offer a purse of $40,000 for a fight to a finish between John L. Sullivan and Peter Jackson. A committee of five was selected to draft rules to govern the contest, and given until next Monday night to report. President Wilson wired. Sullivan the action of the club.

A NIGHT WITH NIHILISTS and some of the mysteries of this dread

Davia. The flag on the State Capitol is at half mast, and preparations are being made to suspend business on the day of the funeral.

Was the Prize for Which Eloquent

AN UNPLEASANT DUTY.

is an evil organization, whose purpose is to send dynamite to England, the most active member in furthering the object of that society, whatever it was, was Dr. Cronin."

The State's attorney objected to this and said he wanted to prove that Dr. Cronin was expelled because he exposed the dynamite policy, and that he was opposing this policy at the time the circular was issued. Mr. Foster then went on to say that the action of on the committee to try the Triangle. Beggs admitted it, and it was true. Cronin was prejudiced against Mr. O'Sullivan, who had caused his expulsion from the Order. Cronin was an agitator, an organizer of rival camps, and had publicly denounced the Triangle. Yet he was selected to act in the trials careaits of witness convenient.

M'ALEESE'S SPEAK-BASY.

An attempt has been made to overthrow Inspector McAleese's "speak-easy" at the Central station, but it will probably be unsuccessful. An information was made before Alder-

Kelly, charging Sergeant David Myers, of the Central station, with the larceny of a bottle of whisky. Kelly was arrested last Tuesday charged with drunkenness, and was discharged the following morning. He had a bottle of whisky on his person, and ac-cording to the usual custom of disposing of captured "red eye," it was confiscated for the use of "jim-jam" prisoners. All whisky taken from prisoners is put in the hospital department, and when ordered by Police Surgeon Mover it is used curing had cases Surgeon Moyer it is used curing bad cases of inebriety. Myers will have a hearing before Alderman O'Donnell Thursday after-late policeman, Louis Zoog, who died at his home on the Southside Wednesday evening,

The Window Glass Workers' Association

uctively in the field.

presents, as well as all the necessaries for making up fancy work. Prices the lowest. Boggs & BUHL.

90 fine winter weight Beaver cloth jackets, richly braided, at $5, actually worth $20. See our "ad."

Jos. Horne & Co.'s Penn Avenue Stores.

J. Lynch's, 438 and 440 Market st.

SILK mufflers for holiday presents. JAMES H. AIKEN & Co., 100 Fifth ave.

Men's department—best furnishings, new neckwear in store for Saturday, from best makers, 25c to $2 each. Boggs & Bust.

CAIN & VERNER, Fifth and Market st.